

People are talking about...

HiRise for MacBook

"There's no shortage of stands for laptops, but we've never seen one as useful or beautiful as the HiRise for MacBook from Twelve South. The HiRise secures that gleaming laptop on the pedestal it deserves, with style and grace. The best part? It places the screen at a more comfortable height for your viewing pleasure, working with an external keyboard and mouse for a more desktop-like experience."

– Mashable

"For avid MacBook users looking for a more ergonomic way to work, this is easily one of the best solutions out there."

– Engadget

"The arms cushion your MacBook with a layer of soft silicone that also provides traction and keeps your Mac from slipping off. If aligned just right, the stand seems to disappear and leave your MacBook floating next to the display."

– 9to5 Mac

Learn more about HiRise for MacBook at twelvesouth.com

"The HiRise is elegant. It looks great. It feels solid. But that's not what matters. No, what matters is the fact that, once I placed my MBP on it and connected a full-size keyboard and mouse to it, the stand disappeared; my neck strains did too! And for me this is another Twelve South home run."

– Gear Diary

"For anyone who uses their MacBook as a primary machine with a monitor, keyboard and pointing device, the HiRise for MacBook is a perfect solution for aligning the monitors to the same height and giving you some additional storage space on your desktop."

– TUAW

"Not only is the screen boosted up six inches, to optimal viewing height, but this also jacks it up to the level of any external monitors you might be using, making them eye-pleasingly aligned. It also allows for increased air flow should you have a hot-running machine, and can improve your chances of attracting a partner by 200% (this last "fact" is a lie)."

– Cult of Mac

"A solid and stylish stand that makes sense for anyone who spends time working on their laptop sat at a desktop. Combined with external keyboard and mouse, typing, particularly, is a more pleasant and productive experience, one that should also improve posture and limit aches and pains."

– MacWorld UK

Learn more about HiRise for MacBook at twelvesouth.com